Texan running 3-D printed guns company ordered to leave Taiwan

AUSTIN, Texas/TAIPEI (Reuters) - A Texan running a 3-D printed guns company who flew to Taiwan as police investigated an accusation he had sex with an underage girl was detained in Taipei on Friday and ordered to leave the island after his U.S. passport was annulled, officials said.

Cody Wilson, 30, was taken to immigration authorities in the capital by officers from Taiwan's Criminal Investigation Bureau, according to officials.

He was ordered to leave Taiwan because he no longer has a valid travel document, said Zhang Wen-xiu, a director of the international affairs and law enforcement division at Taiwan's National Immigration Agency.

Zhang said Wilson was being held by the agency and that its officials were in talks with U.S. representatives in Taiwan concerning his repatriation.

The U.S. Marshals Service, which would likely be responsible for taking Wilson back to the United States, said in a statement it was aware of Wilson's arrest and was "fully engaged with our international partners on this matter."

Wilson, at the center of a U.S. legal battle over his plan to publish instructions for the manufacture of 3-D printed plastic guns, flew into Taiwan legally, the National Immigration Agency said on Friday. Because his U.S. passport was later annulled, the agency said in a statement, he "no longer has the legal status to stay in Taiwan." A lawyer for Wilson and representatives of the Austin Police Department were not immediately available for comment.

Taiwan does not have an extradition treaty with the United States.

Austin police have said Wilson flew to Taiwan earlier this month after a friend told him officers were investigating an allegation by a 16-year-old girl who said she was paid $500 to have sex with him at a hotel in the Texas capital.

Police said investigators interviewed the girl and on Wednesday obtained a warrant for Wilson's arrest, but he had flown to Taiwan by then.

Police said they are aware that Wilson travels often for business, but that they do not know why he went to Taiwan.

Wilson is the founder of Defense Distributed, the focus of a legal and political battle over its placing on the internet blueprints for plastic guns that can be made with a 3-D printer.

The files could previously be downloaded for free, but a federal judge issued a nationwide injunction last month that blocked the posting of the blueprints online. "More people want to associate themselves with a brand that they believe in," Fink said. "Employees are more interested in working for a company that they believe in," he added.

Google defends Gmail data sharing, gives few details on violations

WASHINGTON/SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters) - Alphabet Inc's Google gave details about its policies for third-party Gmail add-ons but stopped short of fully addressing questions from U.S. senators about developers who break its email-scanning rules. How user data flows between big technology platforms such as Google and Facebook Inc and their partners has faced scrutiny around the world this year since Facebook revealed it had done little to monitor such relationships.

Google said in a letter to U.S. senators made public on Thursday that it relies on automated scans and reports from security researchers to monitor add-ons after launch, but did not respond to lawmakers' request to say how many have been caught violating the company's policies.

Senators may seek further clarity on Gmail's operations at a Commerce Committee hearing about privacy practices scheduled for Sept. 26 with officials from Google, Apple Inc, AT&T Inc and Twitter Inc.

Google did not immediately respond to a request for comment. Gmail users must give their consent to activate extensions, which can help them send emails on a time delay, get price-match rebates from retailers and remove unwanted mailing lists. Under Google's policies, software firms that create these add-ons must inform users about how they collect and share Gmail data.

The lawmakers' inquiry came after the Wall Street Journal reported in July that some add-on makers did not make clear to users that their employees could review Gmail messages and that their data could be shared with additional parties. Software experts told Reuters in March that auditing of apps that interact with Gmail, Facebook and other services is lax.

Houston's best patio bars to explore this fall

By Fernando Ramirez

Cooler temperatures are coming to Houston, we promise.

With the exception of this week, which has been spoiled by hot weather in the 90s and high 80s, the fall season is quickly approaching and bringing its pleasant weather to Bayou City.

That makes it a good time to start venturing out and exploring some of Houston's patio bars that offer up food and drink with a lovely breeze. After all, native Houstonians know well enough that the short-lived fall season comes and goes in the blink of an eye.

Thankfully, with new additions and old favorites, there's plenty of places in Houston to eat and drink outside.

To help, we selected our top picks for patio bars around Houston. They include Present Company, a newly opened re-ro-themed patio bar and restaurant in Montrose that boasts a wild and colorful aesthetic.

Former Southwest worker at Hobby alleges 'whites only' break room, discovery of noose

By Andrea Leinfelder

Former Southwest Airlines employee and Harris County resident Jamel Parker has alleged that Southwest Airlines had a whites-only break room at Hobby Airport, according to a discrimination lawsuit filed Wednesday in federal court.

The whites-only area existed for years until a recent renovation removed it a couple years ago, according to the lawsuit filed after Parker received his right to sue notice from the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

The lawsuit lays out a host of discriminatory activities, including Parker being fired for an offense similar to those of white employees who received lesser punishments.

"Southwest is quick to fire blacks while whites are given lesser discipline and chances to improve conduct," the lawsuit reads.

The lawsuit also described an incident in 2017 where black employees found a noose made of bungee cords at gate 45.

Southwest Airlines doesn't comment on matters related to litigation. However, the airline said it works "relentlessly to foster an environment that is diverse and inclusive," and its goal is to support employees and customers from all walks of life.

"We do not tolerate or condone discrimination of any kind, and we cultivate a workplace that mirrors the Customers we serve," the airline said in a statement. "Southwest Airlines is an Equal Opportunity Employer and prides itself on an open and inclusive work environment that consistently ranks among the world's best places to work."

Parker began working for AirTran Airlines as a ramp agent in September 2008 and became a Southwest Airlines employee in 2013 due to the two airlines merging. He learned about the whites-only break room in 2013. The lawsuit alleges that white employees made their own break room, called "WB" for "White Break Room,"

The subject Piano Contest Program is featured with various extraordinary performances demonstrated by a group of outstanding US contestants and pre-selected contestants from China. The splendid and elegant performances displayed by the top-level contestants in the Piano Contest generated a tremendous impression onto the Performance Referee Panel.

One of the high-lighted achievement was displayed by Xiangzhi Liu, from a Renowned Piano Master's family, his superb piano skills and talented performance awarded him the First Class Prize in Teenager B Group. Xiangzhi Liu's parents, Mr. Ning Liu and Mrs. Xiaoping Wu Liu, are renowned pianists both in US and China; and they currently also serve as the principals of Piano Institutes. Many former Houstonians recognize Mr. and Mrs. Liu and they vividly witnessed the dedicated hard work they displayed and the overwhelming success they earned in last two decades both in Houston and China. Besides their amazing achievements, the wonderful International Piano Contest completed in August 2018 also revealed the very promising renewed piano successors, the second generation of Chinese young pianists, educated and raised by Mr. and Mrs. Liu. There are many marvelous stories about their piano learning experiences of these young pianists, including the sharp change from resisting piano practicing to dedicated pursuing to acquire best performance skills. The attitude change illustrates the ignition of the power to learn piano arts, which could be used to inspire many other young pianists and their parents to pursue their future and success.

Xiangzhi Liu

From 3 and half years old, Xiangzhi Liu started to learn playing piano from her mother, professor Xiaoping Wu, and his father, professor Ning Liu, till now when he grows up to 18 years old. Everyone enjoys Xiangzhi Liu's piano performance, because it deeply impressed them with Xiangzhi's very high level performing skills, the beautiful music stream delivered from Liu's finger tips leads the audience to a charming musical realm. However, there had been a very long, boring and tough piano learning experience for Xiangzhi Liu. Because Xiangzhi Liu is from a piano master family, his parents have very delicate sense of music. Xiangzhi Liu had been under a very high standard requirement to mature his performance skills, even he made a very minor mistake, his parents would find out the problem and asked Xiangzhi Liu to correct his error even they stayed in another room. The long term strict learning level and stringent supervision eventually collapsed Xiangzhi Liu's enthusiasm to practice piano. The severe learning pressure made Xiangzhi Liu hate practicing piano and he even wanted to destroy his piano to relieve his learning burden.

Compiled And Edited By John T. Robbins, Southern Daily Editor

Realizing the learning hurdles and mental barrier, Xiangzhi Liu's mother felt very sad for him and she was tempted to abandon the strict training plan for his son. However, Xiangzhi's father was seriously against the abandoning plan, he insisted to help Xiangzhi Liu to continue his piano training program, because he decided that the best and the most valuable asset the parents can leave to the children is to educate and train the kids to own the proved piano performing skills. Due to the strong determination to cultivate their son, Xiangzhi Liu had to struggle hard to continue his piano learning career. From 6 years old to 11 years old, Xiangzhi Liu decided that it was the most difficult time for him to learn practicing piano.

The turning point for Xiangzhi Liu was when he attended a piano contest program when he was 11 years old, and he earned a prize in his first piano contest. The rewarding experience gave him confidence and strongly inspired Xiangzhi Liu to keep mastering his piano skills, and his learning attitude was thoroughly converted because he decided that it was not boring anymore to practice piano.

After his first triumph in piano contest, Xiangzhi Liu kept attending annual one or two piano contest programs every year, and his hard learning rewarded him with many other honors, medals and trophies.

Xiangzhi Liu won many gold medals and numerous honors, including the 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th annual "China Cup" US Music Open Contest, Hong Kong International Piano Open Contest, Dalian Piano Open Contest, "Fu-Li-Hua" Golden Flower Piano Contest, and "Pu-Gon-Yin" Outstanding Youth New Artist Piano Contest. The most remarkable honor that Xiangzhi Liu earned was via his extraordinary performance that displayed in the 17th annual "Fu-Li-Hua-Koman Cup" International Youth Piano Contest in 2014. The 2014 contest is a very high level piano competition, many best young pianists coming from various countries around the world strived very hard in a whole day.

Xiangzhi Liu distinguished himself from the other competitors with his excellent performing skills of "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 6", his marvelous presentation deeply impressed the 21 judge panels coming from across entire China music realm. Due to his superb art performance, Xiangzhi Liu earned the first place of the contest program and he was also rewarded a piano bestowed by the Contest Committee. Xiangzhi Liu impressed every referee and audience with his brilliant music talent and skillful presentation scheme that far exceeded his age. After he contest, Xiangzhi Liu was asked for his comment for winning the contest, and he said: "At this moment, the piano is as important as my life." It is very hard to imagine that that remark was released by the kid who tried to destroy his piano few years ago.

Recital in 2017

Several piano contestants from China Division Contest Region were selected from The Third Southern US Chopin International Piano Contest via their outstanding performance conducted on April 21 and April 22, 2018; and they were authorized to visit US in August 2018 to compete with the selected winning contestants in US Division Contest Region. On August 18, 2018, Xiangzhi Liu played two music themes featured with different styles: "Beethoven: Piano Sonata Appassionata", and "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 6". Xiangzhi Liu was fully absorbed in the charming music he performed, his mature performing skills, passion for music and his elegant sense of music helped drive every music tone to its delicate and full strength presentation that reached to a professional performing level.

Xiangzhi Liu's overwhelming performing skills astonished all the Referee panel and he unanimously won the very high rating for his superb performance; these talented show features won Xiangzhi Liu the First Place Prize of Teenager B Group. Xiangzhi Liu is not only good at playing piano, he is also a good student with excellent academic performance in school. He is currently studying in a famous high school in Houston, TX. Xiangzhi Liu came to US when he was 13 years old and he had studied in First Colony Middle School and William P. Clements High School. He also was an active member of NJROTC and served for school student debate team.

Xiangzhi Liu's mother, Xiaoping Wu, currently serves as the principal of Dalian Liu Ning Piano Institute. Ms. Wu is not only dedicated to her music education, she is also enthusiastically involved with Social Charity Business, including actively organized and sponsored fund raising piano programs to help people in needs.

Ms. Wu had also worked with Dalian Lion Association to jointly formed a Charity Fund for "Blind Children and kids suffering in Autism". This charity fund is dedicated to help provide financial support to these children with music talent to learn piano performance and tuning piano. It is evident that the mother's benevolent actions deeply influenced her children. When Xiangzhi Liu was 13 years old, he voluntarily donated his years accumulated Chinese New Year Gift money to sponsor and support an Orphan raised in a Dalian Society Orphanage to learn playing piano, and he kept supporting that child since then to the current time. More than this good work, Xiangzhi and his younger brother each one donated ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) (the various gift, award money and New Year Gift money the two brothers saved for years) to support two autism children to learn playing piano.

Due to the kindness and merciful actions, Xiangzhi and his brother were awarded with the honor title of "Benevolent Youth", bestowed by Lushun Charitable Organization. On November 30, 2013, Xiangzhi Liu attended the fund raising charity piano performance, "Sunshine and Hope" for future blinded piano tuners. In 2015, Xiangzhi Liu was busily attending three fund raising charity piano performances, held at Houston, TX in May 2015 and at Dalian, China in June 2015, to raise funds for poor family children and blind children in North-Eastern China area to help provide financial needs for their international trip and expenses to attend US music contest programs.

In July 2017, Xiangzhi attended "Century Music, Century Legacy" Charity and Public Benefit Music Concert and he was entitled with the honor of "Superb Director of US Division for Wang Papa Charity Head Association." When staying China, Xiangzhi serves as the Director of Voluntary Worker Division for Wang Papa Charity Head Association; while in US, Xiangzhi founded Sunshine Touring Group so he frequently led his brother to visit Senior Community Centers during the weekend. Besides offering assistance and support, Xiangzhi also brought comfort and warmth to senior citizens via his elegant piano performance. It is nice to know that this sunshine boy always spent his precious time to participate his charity trips, whether he stayed in US or during his stay in China in each summer and winter school vacation period.

One of the remarkable activity was his support and participation for Harvey Relief Fundraiser Concert conducted on October 14, 2017, Xiangzhi led young team members of Sunshine Touring Group to jointly work with multiple local communities to perform fundraiser service for families that suffered the damage by Hurricane Harvey. Yes, the young charity team's effort and wonderful performance was highly appraised by US Congressman who attended the charity fundraiser concert.

In one year, Xiangzhi will graduate from high school and he has decided to pursue his advanced academic career in music institute to pursue the study of piano performance and music management. Through his persistent dedicated work experience on piano performance, Xiangzhi Liu decides that piano is his best partner and he has a dream to develop a professional music institute and to help many talented young pianists to better understand and participate the activities of "Southern US Chopin International Piano Contest" to serve as the bridge of music culture between US and China; and provide more and better support and service for all international talented piano children to fulfill their pursuing goals and dreams in the realm of music.
