Trump signs budget deal after raising government shutdown threat

WASHINGTON (Reuters) - U.S. President Donald Trump signed Congress' newly passed $1.3 trillion spending bill on Friday, ending several hours of confusion spurred by a tweeted veto threat that raised the specter of a government shutdown. Trump said he had signed the bill, despite his qualms on some issues, because a $60 billion increase in military spending had convinced him it was a worthwhile compromise. "But I say to Congress I will never sign another bill like this again," he told reporters. "I'm not going to do it again." White House and Capitol Hill aides had been left scrambling earlier in the day after Trump criticized the six-month spending bill, despite prior assurances from the administration that he would sign it ahead of a looming midnight deadline. "I am considering a VETO of the Omnibus Spending Bill based on the fact that the 800,000 plus DACA recipients have been totally abandoned by the Democrats (not even mentioned in Bill) and the BORDER WALL, which is desperately needed for our National Defense, is not fully funded," Trump wrote on Twitter at 9 a.m. EDT. But by early afternoon, he appeared before reporters in the Diplomatic Reception Room of the White House to announce he had signed the measure.

"There are a lot of things I'm unhappy about in this bill," he said, patting the more than 2,000 pages of the legislation stacked on a purple box beside him. It was unclear how seriously Republican leaders took Trump's shutdown threat. Neither Speaker Paul Ryan nor Senate Leader Mitch McConnell commented publicly on it. U.S. President Donald Trump points to Congress' $1.3 trillion spending bill during a signing ceremony in the Diplomatic Room of the White House in Washington, U.S., March 23, 2018. REUTERS/Kevin Lamarque Lawmakers in the Republican-dominated Senate and House of Representatives had already left Washington for a scheduled two-week spring recess, and Trump himself was scheduled on Friday to fly to Florida for a weekend at his private resort. Trump has been frustrated that Congress has not turned over funding to make good on his campaign promise to build a wall along the U.S.-Mexico border. The bill includes $1.6 billion for six month's of work on the project but he had sought $25 billion for it. Trump also has been at odds with Democrats in Congress over the fate of Dreamer immigrants - those brought to the United States illegally when they were children.

Trump canceled the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) program that gives work permits to the Dreamers and protects them from deportation. The decision is currently tied up in court cases. He offered to extend the protections, tied to a sweeping set of changes to immigration laws, but subsequently rejected bipartisan offers from lawmakers. As the six-month spending budget deal was coming together, there had been reports Trump had balked at the bill and had to be persuaded by Ryan to support it. The conservative wing of Trump's party had panned the bill because of its spending increases and some deficit hawks cheered Trump's Friday morning threat to veto it.

U.S. stock market cheerleader-in-chief goes quiet in downturn

LONDON (Reuters) - Investors have long toasted the U.S. stock market boom that emerged from the depths of the 2008 financial crisis, but one of the bull market's most vocal and visible cheerleaders has abruptly fallen silent: the U.S. President. Since his inauguration in January last year, Donald Trump has regularly taken to Twitter to proclaim the gains in U.S. stocks, often appearing to take credit for their rise. Following his surprise victory in November 2016, investors make a beeline for the market in what became known as the 'Trumpflation' trade - a bet that the former real estate mogul's administration would deliver a boost to the U.S. economy through increased fiscal spending, deregulation and tax cuts. As the following graphic shows, the frequency of Trump's tweets touting the stock market upswing increased towards the second half of 2017 as the S&P 500, a broad index of U.S. stock prices, hit a series of record highs. The index ended the year up nearly 20 percent, its best annual performance since 2012.

REUTERS/Leah Millis Reuters Graphic But after a violent selloff - prompted by fears of U.S. inflation - wiped over $4 trillion in global stock market capitalization earlier this year, the president's Twitter feed has gone quiet on the subject: the second-longest spell without a tweet about the market since his election. Trump's last tweet on the market came shortly after the shakeout, warning investors they were making a "big mistake" for selling stocks despite "good news" about the economy. The S&P 500 and global stocks have struggled to recover since the rout in early February. That development, investors say, is due to fears of a global trade war erupting on the back of tariffs and talk of further protectionist measures from the U.S. administration. Trump himself has tweeted, saying trade wars are "good", and "easy to win." "For a person who's been obsessed with stock market gains since his election victory 16 months ago, Trump doesn't appear too concerned about the impact his tariffs are having at the moment," wrote Craig Erlam, market analyst at OANDA, in a note to clients. The added factor of the successive departures of Trump's chief economic adviser Gary Cohn and Secretary of State Rex

China slaps tariff on U.S. oil pipe, potential hit to Texas industry

By James Osborne

WASHINGTON - Texas manufacturers who produce steel oil and gas pipelines and drill pipe could take a hit after China announced it was slapping a 15 percent tariff on steel pipe from the United States.

“There is definitely a fair amount of the pipe manufacturing that gets done here,” said Praveen Kumar, executive director of the University of Houston’s Gutierrez Energy Management Institute. “It makes sense. Some of the biggest [steel pipe] buyers are in the Houston area, like Schlumberger, and the pipeline companies.”

The tariffs are part of a sprawling $3 billion tariff imposed by the Chinese early Friday, in response to President Donald Trump’s announcement he would enact tariffs targeting $50 billion in Chinese goods. Among the goods targeted by the Chinese are pork, apples and steel pipe.

Now Playing: International reaction to Trump’s tariffs

Donald Trump’s decision to impose tariffs on steel and aluminium imports has fuelled fears of an escalating trade war and hit hard the share prices of Asian steelmakers and manufacturers supplying US markets.

Pipeline manufacturing has grown in Texas over the past decade, as the hydraulic fracturing boom took off in shale plays like the Eagle Ford and Permian Basin.

In November, global steel pipe giant Tenaris began production of steel oil and gas pipe at its new $1.8 billion mill in Bay City, destined for shale oil and gas wells in Texas, Oklahoma and beyond.

But a relatively small amount of that pipe goes to China. U.S. steel pipe exports reached 832,000 metric tons last year, according to the U.S. International Trade Administration. More than 80 percent of that pipe went to Canada and Mexico, with China coming in a distant third. “Bottom line, if the retaliation is on pipelines, Houston will not see much impact. However, if the trade war escalates to broader energy related machinery classes, then Houston will be more exposed,”

Total U.S. drilling rig count inches toward 1,000

West Texas’ booming Permian Basin led another jump in the number of rigs drilling for oil as the overall rig count inches toward 1,000 for the first time in nearly three years.

This week saw four net rigs added to the oil patch while one rig was tacked onto natural gas fields, according to weekly data collected by Baker Hughes, a GE company.

The overall U.S. rig count is now up to 995 rigs, including 804 of them drilling for oil.

Both Texas and the Permian added seven rigs, more than offsetting a loss of four rigs in Oklahoma. No other region of the country had a sizable gain or loss during the week.

The Permian alone now accounts for 444 oil rigs - 55 percent of the oil rig count nationwide. Likewise, Texas is home to 499 total rigs - more than half of the nation’s total.

The overall rig count, including oil and gas rigs, has sat below 1,000 since April 2015 when oil prices were collapsing.

U.S. oil prices were hovering above $65 a barrel early Friday afternoon. The last time oil prices were $67 or higher was December 2014.

After the Permian, the next most active area is South Texas’ Eagle Ford shale with 72 rigs. Oklahoma’s Cana Woodford is next with 59 rigs. Oklahoma is still home to the second-most rigs with 120 active. New Mexico is next with 88 rigs.

The total U.S. rig count is well up from an all-time low of 404 rigs in May 2016.

Despite this week’s jump, the oil rig count is down 50 percent from its peak of 1,609 in October 2014, before oil prices began plummeting.

CDC Doctor: ‘Disastrous’ Flu Shot
Causing Deadly Flu Outbreak

Compiled And Edited By John T. Robbins, Southern Daily Editor

A CDC doctor has warned this year’s “disastrous” flu shot may be responsible for the deadly flu epidemic sweeping the country. “Some of the patients I’ve administered the flu shot to this year have died,” the doctor said, adding “I don’t care who you are, this scares the heck out of me.” “We have seen people dying across the country of the flu, and one thing nearly all of them have in common is they got the flu shot.” Scientists were worried this year’s flu season was going to be rough and their fears have been proven well founded. The flu season is off to a record-breaking start, with the CDC reporting widespread flu activity from coast to coast. Many health officials believe that 2018 will ultimately be the worst flu outbreak that we have experienced since 1918. The CDC doctor’s experience of patients dying of the flu after receiving the flu shot is sadly not uncommon. Eight Santa Barbara County residents have died from the flu in the last fortnight. Seven of them had the flu shot.

Flu: Facts or Fiction?

This deadly pattern is replicating itself across the country. Yet health officials are still telling people to get the flu shot, even though it does not work well this season. Health officials have started admitting that the vaccine is only 10% effective. The verdict is out on flu shots. Many medical experts now agree it is more important to protect yourself and your family from the flu vaccine than the flu itself. Every year the pharmaceutical industry, medical experts and the mainstream media work hard to convince us to get vaccinated against the flu. 2018 is no different. But, as usual, we’re not being told the whole story. Pharmaceutical companies provide mainstream media outlets with a huge percentage of their advertising revenue. Big pharmaceutical companies actually spend far more on advertising than research. We are talking hundreds of billions of dollars.

It is clear Big Pharma is desperate to ensure mainstream media outlets never tell us about adverse reactions or the toxic chemicals being injected into us in the flu shot. Flu vaccines contain dangerous ingredients The pharmaceutical industry, medical experts and the mainstream media admit to us that flu vaccines contain strains of the flu virus. What they are less likely to reveal though is the long list of other ingredients that come with the vaccine. It is now a known fact that flu vaccines contain mercury, a heavy metal known to be hazardous for human health. Mercury toxicity can cause depression, memory loss, cardiovascular diseases, respiratory problems, ADD, oral health problems, digestive imbalances and other serious health issues. The flu vaccines actually do not immunize but sensitize the body against the virus. Have you ever noticed how vaccinated children get sick almost immediately following a vaccination?

This is because the flu virus is introduced into their bodies. So rather than immunize, the flu shot actually only sensitizes the body against the virus. And the fact that it causes individuals to get ill following a shot indicates immuno-suppression (i.e. lowering of the immunity). Makes you more susceptible to pneumonia and other contagious diseases For someone with an already suppressed immune system, injecting strains of the flu virus can have devastating consequences. If your body is already working to fight off a virus or simply operating with low immunity, a vaccine injection could put your body in serious danger of contracting influenza with stronger symptoms, or even worse pneumonia and other contagious diseases. Weakens immunological responses There have been literally thousands of medical journal articles published that show injecting vaccines can lead to harmful immunological responses and a host of other infections. Moreover, weak immunological responses only decrease a person’s ability to fight the diseases that the vaccine was supposed to protect against in the first place.

Serious neurological disorders

Evidence now suggests that ingredients in flu vaccinations can actually cause serious neurological disorders. In 1976 a significant number of those who received the flu vaccine acquired Guillain-Barré Syndrome (GBS), a disorder characterized by permanent nerve damage and even paralysis. Flu vaccines can contain many harmful materials including detergent, mercury, formaldehyde, and strains of live flu virus. Should you get a flu shot? If you are still prevaricating, and wondering who to trust, consider this: The very people pushing flu vaccinations, and putting the fear of God into anybody who abstains, are making billions of dollars each year. Are they the people we should be trusting with our health?

In August 1999, the Committee on Government Reform initiated an investigation into Federal vaccine policy. This investigation focused on possible conflicts of interest on the part of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The investigation concluded that many individuals serving on two key advisory committees had financial ties to the pharmaceutical companies that manufacture vaccines. Often, these individuals were granted waivers to fully participate in the discussions that led to recommendations on vaccine licensing and adding vaccines to the Childhood Immunization Schedule. This in itself creates serious doubt as to how effective flu vaccines really are.

Medical Doctor Apologizes

For Vaccine Ignorance

A brave physician has spoken out factually about vaccines

Dr. Daniel Neides was neither anti-vaccine nor 100% pro-vaccine, but simply wanted an honest discussion about vaccines. But he was nonetheless fired after writing an article which questioned vaccine safety. It all started in 2016 when the former healthcare physician at the Cleveland Clinic was working for a medical facility where it was mandatory for all employees to receive the annual flu vaccine. He, along with four other employees received the “preservative-free” flu jabs and immediately all five of them contracted the flu!

Natural Flame Report

That “aha” event made Dr. Neides check into the flu vaccine ingredients and realize even though the label stated it contained “no preservative,” it contained formaldehyde. Formaldehyde! That fact was shocking to him, so he decided to research further into vaccine ingredients. The further he investigated, the more he became incensed, it seems. Dr. Neides realized after reading Dr. Paul Thomas’s book, Vaccine Friendly Plan there are some super serious questions to be asked regarding the Hepatitis B vaccines given to infants within 24 hours of birth whereby 250 nanograms of ALUMINUM are injected into newborns whose immune systems are not fully developed! At that point of his research he realized, “What have I done to my own family?”

As a result of his investigations, Dr. Neides has become a “pro patient” physician who believes in and practices fully-informed consent on the part of the patient. He believes patients should know the risks versus the benefits. He further believes in the Geneva Convention’s dictate “no medical intervention without patients’ consent”—something that does not happen regarding the administration of vaccines/vaccinations in the United States. Parents and healthcare consumers are told vaccines are safe and effective, but not given the information in vaccines package inserts explaining Contraindications, Adverse Reactions, and Ingredients! Vaccines are in direct violation of the medical oath doctors take: First, do no harm!

Dr. N found there was ethylmercury and aluminum in many vaccines, especially those given to infants, toddlers, and teens, which potentially can and do lead to acute and chronic diseases.

Doctor further relates how he cautioned pregnant females about not eating tuna fish while pregnant due to its mercury content, but he became horror-struck at the fact when he realized he was mandated to give pregnant mothers a flu vaccine containing mercury! That made no scientific sense to him.

He shares that in medical school there was no education around vaccines; no discussion of the 1986 vaccine law, which exonerates vaccine makers from vaccine damage liabilities; he was taught to memorize the vaccine schedules; there was no discussion of the HRS vaccine claimants’ damage payouts, which now are close to $4 Billion for vaccine damages to vaccines! Furthermore, he’s quick to point out the conflicts of interest regarding physicians and vaccines. See my August 2017 article “The Unknown Reasons Doctors Push Vaccines.” However, the most humbling of personality traits Dr. Neides possesses is his genuine remorse for not knowing about vaccines and the harms he inadvertently may have caused patients. He apologizes profusely in the video below, which is very humbling to see and hear—a medical doctor remorseful for not knowing what he should have known to be able to prevent health harms to patients. Dr. Neides says, “We are a very sick population.” We are spending $3.5 Trillion or 18 percent of GDP on healthcare! By 2040, we will be spending 33 percent of GDP on healthcare!
