PayPal becomes first member to exit Facebook's Libra Association

WASHINGTON (Reuters) - U.S. payments processor PayPal Holdings Inc (PYPL.O) said on Friday it was leaving Libra Association, the entity managing the Facebook-led effort to build global digital currency Libra, making it the first member to exit the group. PayPal said it would forgo any further participation in the group and would instead focus on its own core businesses.

"We remain supportive of Libra's aspirations and look forward to continued dialogue on ways to work together in the future," PayPal said in a statement. In response, Geneva-based Libra Association said it was aware of the challenges lying ahead in its attempts to "reconfigure" the financial system. "The type of change that will reconfigure the financial system to be tilted towards people, not the institutions serving them, will be hard. Commitment to that mission is more important to us than anything else. We're better off knowing about this lack of commitment now, rather than later", Libra Association said in a statement. Facebook Inc (FB.O) declined to comment.

Facebook announced plans to launch the digital currency in June 2020 in partnership with other members of Libra Association but the project quickly ran into trouble with skeptical regulators around the world.

Reuters reported last week that Facebook could push back the launch of Libra to tackle regulatory concerns.

Visa (V.N) and Mastercard Inc (MA.N) are also reconsidering their involvement in Libra as they do not want to attract regulatory scrutiny, the Wall Street Journal reported earlier this month.

France and Germany last month pledged to block Libra from operating in Europe and backed the development of a public cryptocurrency instead.

With the exit of PayPal, Libra Association now has 28 members, including Uber Technologies Inc (UBER.N), Lyft Inc (LYFT.O) and Spotify Technologies (SPOT.N).

"We look forward to the first Libra Council meeting in 10 days and will be sharing updates following that, including details of the 1,500 entities that have indicated enthusiastic interest to participate," Libra Association said in a tweet.

U.S. importers stockpile Parmigiano, Provolone as tariffs on EU cheeses loom

WASHINGTON/WEST CALDWELL, New Jersey (Reuters) - Ambriola Co Inc's mammoth warehouse in West Caldwell, New Jersey, is crammed full of boxes and wheels of harder cheeses such as Parmigiano Reggiano, Pecorino Romano and Grana Padano - and more is coming, lots more.

Phil Marfuggi, president and chief executive officer of Ambriola, a unit of Auricchio SpA, one of Italy's largest cheese producers, is among the many importers and shop owners across the country who are scrambling to stockpile European cheeses before new U.S. tariffs kick in on Oct. 18 in efforts to shield consumers from price hikes.

The Trump administration on Wednesday slapped 25% tariffs on cheese and other European Union products ranging from whisky to woolens, in retaliation for EU subsidies on large aircraft. Both sides say they are open to negotiations, but trade experts see little chance of averting the duties - at least in the short run.

Importers began ordering millions of dollars of extra wheels of Parmigiano Reggiano and other harder cheeses after the U.S. Trade Representative's office in July added cheese to its list of EU products potentially facing tariffs due to the dispute over aircraft subsidies.

Sacklers reaped up to $13 billion from OxyContin maker, U.S. states say (Reuters) - OxyContin maker Purdue Pharma LP steered up to $13 billion in profits to the company's controlling Sackler family, according to U.S. states opposing efforts to halt lawsuits alleging the company and its owners helped fuel the U.S. opioid epidemic.

Purdue ultimately transferred $12 billion or $13 billion to the family, a company adviser testified in the deposition. The deposition, taken last week, was revealed in court filings on Thursday and Friday.

Many states want the Sacklers to contribute more than an initial $3 billion they have pledged toward resolving the lawsuits as part of a settlement Purdue has proposed.

Attorneys general from 24 states and the District of Columbia on Friday objected to Purdue's September request that a U.S. bankruptcy judge halt more than 2,600 lawsuits seeking billions of dollars in damages, and they raised financial transfers to the Sacklers in their legal arguments.

So, too, did lawyers representing 500 cities, counties and Native American tribes, according to an earlier court filing.

"The distribution numbers do not reflect the fact that many billions of dollars from that amount were paid in taxes and reinvested in businesses that will be sold as part of the proposed settlement," said Daniel S. Connolly, a lawyer for family members facing lawsuits who are related to the late Raymond Sackler, one of the modern Purdue's co-founders, in a statement.

A spokesman for relatives of another deceased company co-founder, Mortimer Sackler, who also face litigation, had no immediate comment. Purdue had no immediate comment on the payments. The company and family have denied allegations they contributed to the U.S. opioid crisis.

The lawsuits, largely brought by state and local governments, allege Purdue and the Sacklers contributed to a public health crisis that has claimed the lives of nearly 400,000 people since 1999 by aggressively marketing opioids while downplaying their addiction and overdose risks.

"The Sacklers are billionaires, they are not bankrupt," Massachusetts Attorney General Maura Healey, among the officials opposing Purdue's efforts to halt lawsuits, told Reuters in an interview. "They should not be allowed to use the filing to shield their assets."

Purdue filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection last month after reaching a deal it valued at more than $10 billion that would resolve the bulk of the cases against the company and the Sacklers.

The company contends it needs the litigation against it and the Sacklers paused for about nine months so it can attempt to settle with hold-out plaintiffs and preserve money that would otherwise be spent fighting the cases.

Purdue said the costs of continued litigation were "staggering," putting its legal expenses this year at nearly $250 million.

"Without a stay of the litigation, only lawyers will win," the company said in a statement.

Typically, a bankruptcy filing triggers an "automatic stay" of all litigation without a specific order from a judge. However, Purdue is seeking an injunction to stop the lawsuits because the Sacklers did not seek bankruptcy protection and there is an exception to the automatic stay for government actions that seek to enforce laws related to public health and safety. Healey said the exception gives the states a strong argument to move forward with their cases against the OxyContin maker. "We're exercising our police power and have the right to do so," she said.

The Sacklers have offered to cede control of Purdue to the plaintiffs and contribute $3 billion, and potentially more through the sale of another pharmaceutical business they own,

Ads For “Trumpcare” Are Seen Everywhere – But It Does Not Exist

Groups that promote Trumpcare™ medical coverage are lying to the public. (Photo/Axios.com)

Compiled And Edited By John T. Robbins, Southern Daily Editor

Do a quick search for health insurance, and you'll find plenty of ads for “Trumpcare” plans that cost $59 or less per month. But there's a catch: Trumpcare doesn't exist, and many of these advertised plans offer bare-bones coverage.

Why it matters: For people who buy health insurance on their own instead of receiving it through an employer, searching for a plan is already challenging. And deceptive marketing only makes it harder, especially when these plans will leave consumers on the hook for potentially ruinous medical bills.

Reality check: The primary way the Trump administration has altered the insurance market is by expanding niche products — including short-term plans, association plans and health reimbursement arrangements.

Misleading advertisements like the one above serve to misled and confuse the public since there is no “Trumpcare” medical insurance program.

After seeing Trumpcare ads in search engines, I submitted contact information to get quotes about coverage options. Over the the next week, I was bombarded with 70 phone calls and 12 texts from insurance brokers.

•Every broker I spoke to admitted there is no such thing as Trumpcare, and that it is a marketing ploy from the lead generator site.

•When I asked how I could get the plan that was advertised for $59 or less per month, brokers said the ads were in reference to short-term plans or fixed indemnity plans that offer little to no coverage for serious illness or injury.

What they're saying: “These websites that are selling ‘Trumpcare’ are capitalizing on the fact that very few people know what's going on,” said Louise Norris, an independent insurance broker in Colorado.

•One family who recently bought a short-term plan through Health Insurance Innovations, a platform that has used fraudulent brokers, was on the hook for more than $244,000 in medical bills even though they thought they were protected, Bloomberg reported.

The other side: Jeff Smedsrud, co-founder of HealthCare.com, a site that has advertised “Trumpcare” plans, said he didn't think it was misleading to use that framing for plans that are sold through its brokers.

•“Could it lead to confusion? I don't think it has. Anything is possible,” he said. “I'll certainly look at what we do. I may have our team change our mind on that.”

It should not be confused with a national healthcare program offered through the U.S. government. The information below is offered by way of clarifying the use of the term, “Trumpcare.” On August 1st, HHS (Health and Human Services) announced a rule change that impacts short term health insurance, or what is sometimes being referred to as, “Trumpcare plans”. Effective October 1st, 2018, short term health plans will now be allowed to have a full one year policy term, instead of being limited to three months. We have outlined in multiple articles within this site, as well as within our Trumpcare update below, the pros and cons of short term health plans. They're not for everyone, and they are not as tightly regulated as other insurance products. While this expansion from 3 month to 12 month policy terms will professionals. Especially when it comes to short term plans, or ACA alternatives. We believe that in terms of risk vs. reward, there's a lot of risk purchasing a plan from a small company that no one has ever heard of. Larger well established companies providing short term health insurance coverage, like United Healthcare, we feel are a much more safe and secure choice for short term health insurance.

Short term health insurance is portrayed by almost all news media outlets as being “junk insurance”. This is simply not accurate or fair, but it makes for great click-bait. The problem, is that news outlets don't have the ability or time to give you all of the facts and details about all insurance products. So our advice, is to research things in detail before making any decision or judgement. (Courtesy trumpcare.com)

The graphic above is misleading and deceptive – there is no “TrumpCare.”

The bottom line: “It's impossible to expect consumers to discern between the good guys and the con artists,” said Sabrina Corlette, a health insurance researcher at Georgetown University. “And it's not the good guys that pop up on the first page of your Google search results.” (Courtesy axios.com)

Trump Lowering The Number Of Refugees Permitted Into U.S. To 18,000

The Trump administration also plans to prioritize refugees who have been persecuted for religious beliefs, Iraqis who have helped the U.S. overseas, and legitimate refugees from Northern Triangle countries, per the release. (Photo/AFP via Getty Images)

Compiled And Edited By John T. Robbins, Southern Daily Editor

The Trump administration is proposing to cut the number of refugees permitted to resettle in the U.S. next year to just 18,000 — down from a record-low of 30,000 last year, according to a State Department press release on Thursday.

Why it matters: The administration also plans to prioritize refugees who have been persecuted for religious beliefs, Iraqis who have helped the U.S. overseas, and legitimate refugees from Northern Triangle countries, per the release. This would be the fourth time the Trump administration lowered the refugee cap, and it had reportedly discussed lowering it to zero. There are more displaced people in the world today than at any point since World War II, according to the United Nations.

In addition, Trump issued an Executive Order on Thursday evening instructing the federal government to resettle refugees only in jurisdictions where state and local governments have consented to receive those refugees, with “limited exceptions.”

Acting Homeland Security Secretary Kevin McAleenan said in a statement that the new refugee cap will allow DHS “to focus on addressing the ongoing crisis at the southern border, reducing a staggering asylum backlog that unfairly delays relief for those with meritorious claims...”

Between the lines: The asylum system and high number of applicants was also mentioned in the State Department press release. Advocates for cutting the refugee cap often argue that the high numbers of asylum seekers the U.S. allows in compensates for cutting the refugee cap — both forms of humanitarian protection for those who have been forced to flee their home nations.

“The current burdens on the U.S. immigration system must be alleviated before it is again possible to resettle large number of refugees,” the press release said. Jared Kushner has also argued that the money spent on bringing refugees into the U.S. would be better spent helping countries already hosting refugees.

The big picture: Trump has made it more difficult for victims and refugees to find help in the U.S.

His administration has repeatedly tried to thwart asylum seekers through new regulations.

Denial rates for visas intended for victims of crime or human trafficking have risen.

The administration has also ended Temporary Protected Status (TPS) for hundreds of thousands of immigrants from nations such as El Salvador, Haiti, Sudan and Nicaragua — although the courts have kept the protected status alive for now.

Millions of immigrant files physically stored in underground Missouri cave
Officials are trying to carry out President Trump’s months-old directive demanding that sponsors of immigrants pay the government for the costs when those immigrants used certain public benefits. But to tabulate that, they have to go through a cave in Missouri.

Acting Director of U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS)

Ken Cuccinelli. Photo: Chen Meng-tong/China News Service/Visual China Group via Getty Images

The bottom line: The majority of those immigration files — including sponsors’ information — are located on physical sheets of paper often stored in a large, underground facility in Kansas City’s limestone caves, multiple current and former government officials tell Axios.

“The cave stores more than 20 million immigration files, and we add 1.5 million new files every year,” a U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Facebook post from 2014 says.

The state of play: An interagency working group has had monthly calls with the White House to work out a system, an administration official tells Axios. But it’s proved a complicated — if not impossible — task.

“An alien’s file could be hundreds of pages long,” the official said. “It’s almost comical.”

USCIS’ former chief counsel, Ur Jadou, said the agency has databases with some immigrant data points, and it has digitized a handful of forms — but there is no simple way to find an immigrant’s sponsor.

•Family-based visas — one of the most common visas requiring sponsors — are handled entirely on paper, another former USCIS official said.

The response: A spokesperson said USCIS is continuing to work on digitizing records. (Courtesy Axios.com)

彭於晏 緊急救援 新海報 獻禮國慶

致敬中國救撈人 "紅海行動"導演新作春節上映

為慶祝中華人民共和國成立70周年，電影《緊急救援》聯動交通運輸部在東海海域內鳴笛為祖國母親慶生獻禮，嘹亮的笛聲響徹雲霄，傳遍遼闊海域。電影《緊急救援》和中國救撈人用這種獨特的方式宣告祖國有我，壯我國威！除此之外，電影發布壹張“祖國有我”主題海報，海報上中國救撈船只整齊列隊，在茫茫大海中時刻準備著拯救生命。

這部由林超賢導演傾力創作的電影鉅制，是華語電影首部聚焦海上救援題材的影片，影片展現了新中國成立以來，中國救撈砥礪前行蓬勃發展，成為如今國際上極具影響力的壹支專業救撈隊伍。

“守汪洋，護生命。祖國70年，與國同行。”正值新中國成立70周年，電影《緊急救援》發布“祖國有我”主題海報。波濤洶湧的大海上，“南海救115”、“東海救201”輪等現代化救助船隻齊列隊等待祖國的

“檢閱”，穿雲破霧的救助直升機如同海鷗壹般翱翔於碧海藍天之間，時刻準備著迎接新的考驗。這些裝備不僅展現我國海上救援的實力，同時也是祖國繁榮昌盛的象征。

作為華語電影中首部聚焦海上救援題材的影片，此次電影《緊急救援》選擇了壹種特殊且具有新意的方式為祖國慶賀。影片聯合交通運輸部以鳴笛的方式獻禮國慶，彰顯了中國救撈人對祖國的拳拳真意。

《緊急救援》是林超賢導演繼《湄公河行動》和《紅海行動》後的又壹鉅制。此次，林超賢之所以選擇聚焦“救撈人”群體，壹方面是因為

中國救撈人的形象並不為大眾所知，另壹方面則是認為這群百折不撓、臨危不懼的救撈人值得被大眾關注。中國救撈作為世界上整體實力最強的專業救撈力量之壹，始終在關鍵時刻發揮關鍵作用。林超賢導演將通過大銀幕把中國救撈故事傳播到千家萬戶。2020年大年初壹，萬千觀眾將與《緊急救援》壹起見證救撈精神，堅信中國力量，彰顯中國實力！

影片耗時三年，輾轉福州、廣西、廈門三個城市，及海外墨西哥四地，海陸空三地救援實拍，可謂是克服了重重磨難。為完成全世界公認最難拍的水戲，導演林超賢帶領彭於

晏、王彥霖、辛芷蕾等演員遠赴墨西哥，前往《泰坦尼克號》、《加勒比海盜》等影片拍攝地完成水下拍攝。導演林超賢始終用國際化標準要求演員，帶領全劇組迎難而上，挑戰多重極限。不僅將驚險刺激的海上救援行動立體呈現，更是將中國救撈人的精神面貌真實展露。

電影《緊急救援》由人民交通出版社股份有限公司、中視時尚影視發展有限公司、英皇影業有限公司、騰訊影業文化傳播有限公司、浙江博納影視制作有限公司、高德集團、天津貓眼微影文化傳媒有限公司聯合出品。影片將於2020年大年初壹正式上映。
