In Senate deal, Trump impeachment trial put off until early February

WASHINGTON (Reuters) - The leaders of the U.S. Senate agreed on Friday to push back former President Donald Trump's impeachment trial by two weeks, giving the chamber more time to focus on President Joe Biden's legislative agenda and Cabinet nominees before turning to the contentious showdown over Trump.

Senate Majority Leader Chuck Schumer, a Democrat, said the trial is set to begin during the week of Monday Feb. 8, an arrangement praised by the chamber's top Republican, Mitch McConnell. The House of Representatives is due to formally deliver to the Senate on Monday the impeachment charge accusing Trump of inciting an insurrection, a move that ordinarily would have triggered the beginning of the trial within a day. The charge stems from Trump's incendiary speech to supporters before they stormed the Capitol on Jan. 6 in a rampage that delayed the formal congressional certification of Biden's election victory and left five people dead, including a police officer.

Schumer said the new timeline will allow the Senate to move quickly on key Biden appointees and other tasks while giving House lawmakers who will prosecute the case and Trump's team more time to prepare for the trial.

"During that period, the Senate will continue to do other business for the American people, such as Cabinet nominations and the COVID relief bill which would provide relief for millions of Americans who are suffering during this pandemic," Schumer said on the Senate floor.

The timeline was a compromise after McConnell had asked the Democratic-led House to delay sending the charge until next Thursday, and called on Schumer to postpone the trial until mid-February to give Trump more time to prepare a defense. Doug Andres, a spokesman for McConnell, said the senator was pleased Democrats had given Trump's defense more time, and laid out a timeline that could have the trial begin as soon as Feb. 9.

"This is a win for due process and fairness," Andres said.

Under the timeline, House impeachment managers will file their pre-trial brief and Trump's defense team will file an answer to the impeachment charge on Feb. 2, and each side will respond to those filings on Feb. 8.

Timeline to Trump's impeachment trial in U.S. Senate

Trump on Jan. 13 became the first U.S. president to have been impeached twice. The Senate acquitted him last year in the previous trial focused on Trump's request that Ukraine investigate Biden and his son. Trump's presidential term ended on Wednesday.

Conviction in the Senate would require a two-thirds vote - meaning 17 of Trump's fellow Republicans would have to vote against him. A conviction would clear the way for a second vote, requiring a simple majority, to bar Trump from holding office again.

A Reuters/Ipsos poll released on Friday found a slim majority of Americans believe Trump should be convicted and barred from holding public office. The responses were almost entirely along party lines, with nine out of 10 Democrats wanting Trump convicted and less than two in 10 Republicans agreeing.

Trump has said he may seek the presidency again in 2024. His fate could depend on McConnell, whose position is likely to influence other Republicans. McConnell said this week that the mob that attacked the Capitol was "fed lies" and "provoked by the president and other powerful people."

BIDEN'S AGENDA

White House spokeswoman Jen Psaki told reporters earlier in the day that the Senate should be able to move forward with both the trial and Biden's agenda, beginning with his call for $1.9 trillion of process is his proposal to get relief to the American people at this time of crisis," Psaki said.

Republican Senator Lindsey Graham, a close ally of Trump, said the agreement between Schumer and McConnell was "fair to all concerned." "It allows the president's defense team adequate time to prepare and for the sake of the country, it moves the process forward," Graham said.

Senate rules had called for an impeachment trial to begin at 1 p.m. on the day after the single article of impeachment was delivered to Senate, except for Sundays.

The deal came even as Schumer and McConnell struggled to assert control in a chamber divided 50-50, with Democrats holding a majority thanks to Vice President Kamala Harris' tie-breaking vote.

McConnell has insisted that Democrats provide a guarantee that they will not end what is known as the legislative filibuster, which enables the minority Republicans to put up procedural hurdles for legislation sought by Biden.

Schumer rejected McConnell's demand on Friday as "unacceptable." Schumer became the chamber's leader this week after Democrats won two Georgia U.S. Senate runoff elections earlier in the month.

The Beginning Of America After The End Of Trump

Trump is ending his presidency with the worst jobs record and has left the country in the grips of an epistemic crisis.

Americans are now angrier, more fearful and trust each other much less as communities are being ripped apart by the nation's politics more than ever before.

In the last several decades a lot of close friends were Republicans which was the party that wanted small government and less taxes. We as businessmen wanted to follow this policy to get business moving ahead. But unfortunately, when Trump came to power, he was the one who started using the "America First" slogan to turn the country and the world upside down.

Trump was the only president who had ever brought his daughter and son-in-law into the White House to become a senior advisor to president.

House Democrats will send the articles of impeachment to the Senate on Monday. The trial of Trump will start on Feb-

Today, Dr. Antony Fauci called the Executive Board of the World Health Organization to announce that the United States is remaining with the organization. "I am honored to announce that the United States will remain a member of the World Health Organization."

This is such an important step that the U.S. has returned to WHO at such a difficult time for our nation. We all need to support the Biden administration to finish his 100 days plan.

Two weeks after the nation witnessed an attack on the U.S. Capitol, President Biden and Vice President Kamala Harris were sworn into office. We are so happy there is a new leader in the White House.

Highly Transmissible COVID-19 Variant First Found In U.K. Could Be Dominant In U.S. By March: CDC

Compiled And Edited By John T. Robbins, Southern Daily Editor

The new coronavirus variant first seen in the United Kingdom is likely to become the dominant strain in the United States by March, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) said in a new report Friday. The mutation is believed to be more contagious, and research shows it could experience "rapid growth" in the early part of this year. The CDC explored a number of different scenarios involving the strain, which experts believe is about 50% more transmissible than the original. In each one, the new strain made up the majority of cases in the U.S. within the next two months. "Multiple lines of evidence indicate that B.1.1.7 is more efficiently transmitted than are other SARS-CoV-2 variants," the CDC said. The variant, known as B.1.1.7, was first detected in the U.K. in mid-December and has since spread to over 30 countries. The variant has so far been detected in at least 10 states, with approximately 76 cases as of January 13, although the actual number is expected to be much higher. This week, coronavirus cases in the U.S. topped 23 million, with over 392,000 deaths since the pandemic began, according to Johns Hopkins University.

The CDC said the new strain "warrants universal and increased compliance with mitigation strategies, including distancing and masking. Higher vaccination coverage might need to be achieved to protect the public." Researchers reiterated the need to stick to health guidelines such as wearing a mask, proper hygiene and social distancing, among other things, to continue limiting the spread of the virus while the nation rapidly works to vaccinate the most vulnerable. The new strain may also make achieving so-called "herd-immunity" more difficult. The CDC warned that while no variant is proven to cause more severe cases, "a higher rate of transmission will lead to more cases, increasing the number of persons overall who need clinical care, exacerbating the burden on an already strained health care system, and resulting in more deaths." New research suggests that Pfizer's COVID-19 vaccine can still protect against the mutation, as well as over a dozen other strains. However, the Trump administration has failed to meet targets for getting Americans vaccinated, with only around 12 million doses administered as of Saturday. As fears of the U.K. strain escalate, the CDC has issued stricter travel guidelines to present negative coronavirus tests before entering the country. (Courtesy cbsnews.com)

U.S. Expected To Have 500,000 COVID-19 Deaths By February, CDC Official Warns

As the U.S. closes in on 400,000 coronavirus deaths, the incoming director of the Centers for Disease Control said that by the middle of February, officials expect the death toll to be staggering.

"By the middle of February, we expect half a million deaths in this country," Dr. Rochelle Walensky said.

The grim news comes as Los Angeles is battling a more contagious variant of the virus. California leads the world in coronavirus cases, with over 3 million residents infected. UCLA epidemiologist Dr. Anne Rimoin told CBS News that she "certainly" suspects there are more variants active in the population. She likened searching for the variants to "shining a flashlight in the dark," adding, "You're going to see something if you start to look, and we just haven't been looking."

But nationwide, the chaotic rollout of the vaccine continues, leading to more than a few frayed nerves in Florida. "You can't get an appointment, you can't buy an appointment. So what we going to do?" said Palm Beach resident Elizabeth Johnson. Florida's department of health has said more than 40,000 are already overdue for their second dose, as the country braces for the worst.

The darkest weeks have already hit Southern California. Data shows the dramatic increase in COVID-19 deaths in LA County, where one person is now dying every six minutes. The coroner has a backlog of bodies, so many that LA County has just eased air quality rules to allow for more cremations.

And yet, as bad as things may seem, there is at least one uplifting update.

CBS News met Dennis Zayas and his wife Jessica just before Christmas, after a COVID-19 diagnosis led to a double lung transplant. He told CBS News that his recovery was a daily struggle and that he had to almost learn how to walk again.

Now, he's not just walking, he's working out -- and over the weekend, got his first dose of the Moderna vaccine.

CBS News has confirmed on Monday that President Trump will lift travel restrictions from Europe and Brazil, where the virus is surging, before he leaves office. The restrictions would be lifted on January 26 -- but President-elect Biden's team said later Monday that he would block the changes. (Courtesy cbsnews.com)

Coronavirus: Can Newborns Catch COVID-19?

Symptoms You Should Lookout For

Unusual Signs And Symptoms Of COVID-19 In Babies

The legendary designer Pierre Cardin, whose futuristic and stylish designs helped revolutionize fashion in the 1950s and 60s, has died at the age of 98.

Compiled And Edited By John T. Robbins, Southern Daily Editor

Novel coronavirus can be a hard disease to battle for any individual. For babies, it's altogether a different ballgame. A new mom's experience with her 4-month-old baby, who had been detected COVID+ has now become a warning for many parents like her globally.

Are younger children at a higher risk of catching COVID-19?

While the occurrence of COVID-19 in babies and older children is not widely documented, nevertheless, it could affect them. Studies say that coronavirus may not cause severe infections amongst kids, but can sometimes present threatening complications.

High temperature

High temperature or fever is resultant of rapid inflammation in the body. It should be noted that while cough is the giveaway sign of COVID-19, in young babies, a high fever which unusually props up is a sign that the baby has caught a viral infection. Fever in babies younger than 3 months can sometimes also be serious, so it should be attended to at once.

Mottled skin

The appearance of 'mottled' or patchy skin is now being looked at as a possible sign of COVID infection in younger kids. Mottled skin arises from a medical condition which causes changes due to low blood flow. In some, skin redness and patches can also appear due to extreme chills or cold. Even though rarely seen at this point in patients with COVID-19 infection, unusual spotting of patches or redness like this should alert you to take a COVID-19 test.

Nausea

Vomiting and nausea are signs of a severe COVID-19 infection. It can also occur in babies who catch the virus. Vomiting may be a sign of gastrointestinal infection or mild pneumonia (which can be resultant of COVID) as well. Consider getting a doctor's opinion as soon as possible if your child experiences additional symptoms to vomiting, such as high temperature, irritability, mood swings and shortness of breath.

Swollen lips or skin

An evident sign of infection in children of all ages, doctors warn parents to look for signs of trouble such as swelling, bluish lips, red patches, raised skin, blister outbreaks or lesions which can resemble chilblains around the hands or feet to be a possible sign of COVID-19. Swelling of any kind is usually a sign of inflammation and can occur without presentation of other typical signs and symptoms as well (such as cough, fever). However, do remember that lesions and swellings are often also the most painful, so care should be provided at once. Keep a tab on your baby's heart rate and pulse. Blue lips and severe symptoms could be a sign of oxygen deprivation and hypoxia.

Muscle pain

Muscle pain or myalgia is usually regarded as one of the toughest and the most exhausting symptoms of COVID in adults. What scientists are now finding is that muscle pain could also affect the little ones.

While they may not be able to express or tell about their symptom, as a caregiver, be aware of signs of worry. Muscle pain in babies can lead to sleep problems, irritability, moodiness, feeding difficulties, frequent crying spurts.

Should parents be worried about MIS-C?

Pediatric multisystem inflammatory syndrome (MIS-C) is a relatively dangerous syndrome linked to COVID-19 in kids. While research is still ongoing, pediatric doctors and medical experts warn that a syndrome like this could acutely affect their immune system and carry lifelong complications. Hence, parents have been urged to closely monitor children and attend to the symptoms, rather than dismissing it off as regular flu right now. Some of the symptoms related to MIS-C can be a high fever, eye pain, swelling, belly pain, stomach cramps, rashes on the feet or hands.

How to care for a baby with COVID-19?

If your baby develops symptoms, isolate and attend to symptoms at once. If you are still nursing your baby, continue to breastfeed. There is no evidence yet to suggest that the virus can transmit via breast milk. Wear a mask, follow good hygiene practices and follow advice stated by your doctor. 1月9日，印度尼西亚三佛齐航空公司一架波音737客机从首都雅加达起飞后不久失联，随后被发现坠毁在雅加达附近海域。据悉，机上载有12名机员及50名乘客，包括7名儿童及3名婴儿。空难发生至今已经过去两天，预计无人生还。

“波音737”、“印尼”，熟悉的字眼令人很难不联想到2018年10月震惊全球的狮航空难。空难调查还在进行中，尚存疑点；但毫无疑问的是，这次坠机事件再一次坐实了印尼“全球最致命航空市场”之名。

失事的印尼三佛齐航空公司SJ182客机9日下午2点36分起飞从雅加达起飞，4分钟后与地面失去联系。雷达显示，飞机在一分钟内急降了3300多米。印尼当局已在雅加达北海岸附近发现黑匣子，预计要花3到5天时间清洁和下载数据，以助找出空难原因。

2021 第一起空难：黑匣子之外的“真相”

据美联社当地时间11日报道，印尼失事客机首位受害者身份已通过指纹验证确定，为一名29岁的机上乘务人员。

搜救指挥中心的工作人员表示，预计不会有生还者。当局集中打捞遇难者的遗体，搜救团队继续在客机失事的海域进行搜索，共有2600人、53海军船只、20艘小艇参与，配合多架直升机在高空巡视。目前已找到客机的涡轮、部分机尾和逃生滑梯，以及客机乘客的个人物品等。负责接收人体残肢的印尼国家警察医院表示，从失事客机乘客的家属收集了40个DNA样本和其他医疗资料，将有助辨认死者身份。

据印尼当地媒体报道，印尼男子阿特玛 (Atma Budi Wirawan) 10日在社交媒体发文称，他和家人总计8人原本要搭乘SJ182航班回坤甸，提前一周就买好了机票，不料后来得知乘机时必须出示新冠肺炎检测证明。“由于检验费用非常贵，我们讨论后决定改乘船回家，船票很便宜，每人只要22万元（约合人民币102元）。”

报道指，在当地，新冠肺炎检测费用约为每人120万印尼盾（约合人民币555元）。阿特玛仍然心有余悸，未曾想到改搭船渡海不仅省下一大笔钱，更“省下”了一家人的性命。2021第一起空难：黑匣子之外的“真相”

然而，幸运不会降临到每一个人的头上。这趟航班的乘客当中，有一家五口所购买的机票原本并非这次航班。半岛电视台10日报道，其家人尤迪·库尔达尼 (Yudi Qurdani) 透露，他们到爪

哇岛万隆旅游之后，原本购买了9日上午7时返回坤甸的楠航航空公司 (NAM Air, 为三佛齐子公司) 的机票，但在前一天晚上，航空公司通知该航班已改为下午1:30，而且将是一架三佛齐航空公司的飞机。

其中一位事主在飞机起飞前在社交媒体留言：“再见，我所有的家人。我们回家了。”她再也没能回家。

从flightradar24上的数据来看，在飞机失事前20秒，飞机高度从约3300米的高度急降至约76米，平均下降速度达到了每秒159米，根据推算，在撞击海面时可能达到了每秒320米的速度。据印尼国家交通安全委员会消息，坠毁客机有可能是撞击海面后解体，但这还不是最终结论。

关键词一：暴雨

失事飞机原定由雅加达飞往西加里曼丹省首府坤甸，由于天气原因，起飞时间推迟了一个小时。有渔民报告曾听到爆炸巨响。据称，当时正下着暴雨，天气非常恶劣，能见度很低，有大水花溅起，巨浪翻滚。

每年11月至次年4月是印尼的雨季，也是洪涝灾害的高发期。去年今时，雅加达从跨年夜开始下起暴雨，引发7年来最惨重洪灾。而印尼作为群岛国家，众多岛屿之间形成近地气团，不排除对飞机安全构成影响的可能性。

关键词二：“老爷机”

三佛齐航空是印尼的第三大航空公司，主要

运营印尼国内航班以及少量的国际航班，在2018年被印尼鹰航收购。失事飞机机型是波音737-500，该飞机于1994年5月交付，机龄已经26.7年，系印尼三佛齐航空于2012年从美联航处购买的二手飞机。

飞机是不是老，跟是不是安全，没有必然的联系。飞机是不是安全，要看它是不是能通过当下的适航标准并能保持适航状态。美国一架波音707，在36岁“高龄”之际仍作为“空军一号”服役，足以证明，如果能严格检修，机龄并不是问题。

老飞机随着寿命增长，维护的成本会越来越高，经济性能也不如新飞机。因此，对于市场保有量巨大、零配件和维护保养服务有充足供应的欧美航司而言，买二手飞机检修服役，不失为一笔好买卖。但对于财力欠缺的航司而言，飞机的维护保养能否跟得上，就要打一个问号了——据《纽约时报》报道，三佛齐航空在疫情暴发之前就已经负债累累。

关键词三：波音737

印尼交通部部长布迪此前在新闻发布会上透露，失事飞机在起飞后没有按照既定航向飞行。同样奇怪的飞行轨迹，同样起飞后不久就俯冲坠毁，令人回想起狮航空难。

不过，这次失事飞机是波音737-500，作为第二代波音737，并没有搭载导致两起737MAX空难的机动特性增强系统 (MCAS)。

有分析指，这次事故最有可能的原因是水平

尾翼控制发生故障。这类故障从90年代起就数次发生在第二代波音737上，并造成空难。

尽管2020年12月，波音737MAX陆续在巴西、美国复飞商业航线，但波音公司仍未完全走出“禁飞困境”。2021年刚刚开局就出现坠机事件，已经连续四个季度亏损的波音公司要想恢复声誉和业绩，恐怕会难上加难。

关键词四：监管疏漏

根据2019年10月发布的狮航空难最终调查报告，狮航自身培训不足是一大原因，此外还包括客机设计缺陷、美国政府监管机构疏忽大意等9项主要因素。而监管不力的问题，不仅仅存在于狮航。

印尼作为东南亚最大经济体和全球主要大宗商品出口国之一，旅游业也积极发展，多重因素助推了印尼航空业在20世纪90年代之后一路高歌猛进，但各种航空事故也接连出现。硬件的因素之外，有分析称，印尼飞行员队伍在培训、管理、团队合作和专业素养等方面都稍逊一筹。在旅游评论网站猫途鹰上，此次出事的三佛齐航空评价堪称糟糕，地勤人员态度差、航班延误取消、退票退款滞后是被投诉最多的问题。

疫情进一步放大了印尼航空业软件上的问题。去年年中，受疫情影响，三佛齐航空的母公司鹰航解雇了上百名飞行员，其中不乏具有丰富飞行经验的高级飞行员。国家级航空尚且如此，遑论规模较小的航司。
