Day after meeting, Blinken and Lavrov exchange diplomatic swipes

NEW DELHI, March 3 (Reuters) - Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov accused the United States of hypocrisy after U.S. Secretary of State Antony Blinken said Russia cannot be allowed to wage war in Ukraine with impunity, during a security forum they attended in New Delhi on Friday.

The top diplomats from Moscow and Washington had both attended the Group of 20 foreign ministers gathering in the Indian capital earlier this week, and met in person for the first time since Russian forces invaded Ukraine a year ago.

"If we allow with impunity Russia to do what it's doing in Ukraine, then that's a message to would-be aggressors everywhere that they may be able to get away with it too," Blinken told the Raisina Dialogue strategic affairs forum.

Speaking at the same strategic affairs forum after Blinken. Lavrov said it was "double standards" to question Russia's action in Ukraine when the United States cited a "threat to its national interest" to justify military intervention in various parts of the world, including the war in Iraq, air strikes on Libya, and the bombing of Yugoslavia during the Kosovo conflict in 1999.

Russians pound access routes to Ukraine's besieged Bakhmut Greece train crash: families of victims grieve as protests grow Turkey's opposition alliance splits over election candidate Portuguese Church struggles to adopt concrete measures to tackle child sexual abuse Canada will 'never tolerate' foreign interference, minister tells China

Lavrov also said the question of when Russia will negotiate an end to the war should be put to Ukraine President Volodymyr Zelensky.

SOUTHERN NEWS GROUP

The Quad statement also took a barely disguised swipe at China by denouncing actions that increase tensions in the South China Sea, and the "militarisation" of disputed territories in the area.

"Everybody is asking when Russia is going to negotiate... the West is continuously saying that it is not time to negotiate yet because Ukraine must win in the battlefield before any negotiations," he said.

At the G20, the United States and its allies called on member countries to keep pressuring Russia to end the conflict, but the G20 was unable to agree on a joint statement on the war due to opposition from China and Russia, which calls its actions a "special military operation" aimed at removing what it says is a threat to its own security.

The Russian minister went on to accuse Washington of "trying to militarise" the Quadrilateral Security Dialogue, a partnership between the United States, Australia, India and Japan that focuses on strategic issues in the Indo-Pacific region.

Earlier in the day Blinken had met with his counterparts from the Quad, as the grouping is informally called, and they issued a statement saying "the use or threat of use of nuclear weapons is inadmissible".

Late last month, Russian President Vladimir Putin suspended a landmark nuclear arms control treaty and threatened to resume nuclear tests.

During their brief exchange on DIALOGUE 2023

the sidelines of the G20 meeting on Thursday, Blinken told Lavrov to end the war and urged Moscow to reverse its suspension of the New START (Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty) on nuclear weapons.

China has denounced the Ouad as a Cold War construct and a clique "targeting other countries".

We are still anger about the Bill 147 at Texas Senate

Republican Senator Kolkhurst who originally proposed the bill to prevent citizen of Chinese buying the land in Texas said Thursday that after listening to the opposition of people from all walks of life she will amended the bill so the all citizens and green card holders can buy real estate in Texas.

The senate Bill 147 which was introduced in December last year was supported by many Republicans including Governor Albert. The bill is to prevent all citizens from Mainland china North Korea Russia and Iran buying the land in Texas including housing and private home.

This bill immediately aroused a fierce rebound from Chinese Asian comunity and held many demonstration.

On Thursday near 100 Chinese American went to Texas capital to testify at Senate building to express their anger that believed this is the bill violates the U.S. constitution and anti-Asian. Which once again insinuated the history of Chinese excluded act and concentration camp in World war II

We all should understand that this great nation is build by the immigrants ten of millions people came to here to look for better life we don't need to used and manipulated by a group of politicians it may be misfortune of the country.

McAfee is the latest corporate addition to the "Star" in Frisco, Texas. The company said it is committed to partnering with the community, local students, and local tech startups to expand awareness around STEM through programs such as McAfee's Online Safety Program for Kids.

Global online protection provider McAfee announced that it will have a new regional headquarters located at The Star in Frisco starting in starting mid-2023.

McAfee offers data center, cloud defense, threat intelligence network, and cybersecurity solutions for companies in the education, enterprise, government and consumer space worldwide. We're looking forward to partnering closely with the city of Frisco and Frisco EDC as we become one of Frisco's newest corporate citizens," Benni Bueckert, VP of Workplace and Engagement, said in the release. "At McAfee, our commitment to protecting all that matters extends beyond the digital world We believe we all have a responsibility to help shape our local communities and to make a difference. With a shared vision and passion for supporting our local community, we see endless possibilities with this partnership."

"Our decision to choose Frisco for our regional HQ was also based on the diverse cultural destination the city has become and the many opportunities our team members will have to be immersed in the community and to give back to the many nonprofit organizations here," Bueckert said. In June McAfee hired

Birv as its new CFO and EVP, who said at the time she will be based in Dallas for the position. In an interview, Biry

Company History

McAfee Corp. (/'mækəfi:/ MA-kə-fee), formerly known as McAfee Associates, Inc. from 1987 to 1997 and 2004 to 2014, Network Associates Inc. from 1997 to 2004, and Intel Security Group from 2014 to 2017, is an American global computer security software company headquartered in San Jose, California.

The company was purchased by Intel in February 2011, and became part of the Intel Security division.

In 2017, Intel had a strategic deal with TPG Capital and converted Intel Security into a joint venture between both companies called McAfee. Thoma Bravo took a minority stake in the new company, and Intel retained a 49% stake. The owners took McAfee public on the NASDAQ in 2020, and in 2022 an investor group led by Advent International Corporation took it private again.

CEO in his place. Network Associates was formed in 1997 as a merger of McAfee Associates, Network General, PGF Corporation and Helix Software. In 1996, McAfee had acquired Calgary, Alberta, Canada-based FSA Corporation, which helped the company diversify its security offerings away from just client-based antivirus software by bringing on board its own network and desktop encryption technologies. The FSA team also oversaw the creation of a number of other technologies that were leading edge at the time, including firewall, file encryption, and public key infrastructure product lines. While those product lines had their own individual successes including PowerBroker (written by Dean Huxley and Dan Freedman and now sold by BeyondTrust), the growth of antivirus ware always outpaced the growth of the other security product lines. It is fair to say that McAfee remains best known for its anti-virus and anti-spam products.

Labs/Network Associates Laboratories/McAfee Research. was highly influential in the world of open-source software, as that organization produced portions of the Linux, FreeBSD, and Darwin operating systems, and developed portions of the BIND name server software and SNMP version 3.

2000-2009 In 2000, McAfee/Network Associates was the leading authority in educating and protecting people against the Love Bug or ILOVEYOU virus, one of the most destructive computer viruses in history.[14]

At the end of 2000, CEO Bill Larson, President Peter Watkins, and CFO Prabhat Goyal all resigned after the company sustained losses.[15] Company president Gene Hodges served as interim CEO before George Samenuk was appoint-early in the year. In mid-2004, the company sold the Sniffer Technologies business to a venture capital backed firm named Network General (the same name as the original owner of Sniffer Technologies), and changed its name back to McAfee to reflect its focus on security-related technologies.

In 2006, Dale Fuller became interim CEO when Samenuk resigned and President Kevin Weiss was fired after the company was accused of questionable stock options practices. David DeWalt took over as CEO on April 2, 2007. In 2007, McAfee launched the Security Innovation Alliance

(SIA), a program focused on cultivating partnerships with other tech companies and integrating third-party technology with McAfee's security and compliance risk management technology, On March 11, 2008, McAfee announced a license agreement with the US Department of Defense. This agreement allowed the DoD to integrate McAfee's Virus Scan Enterprise and Anti-Spyware Enterprise into the Defense Information Systems Agency's cyber-security solutions. 2010-present On August

19, 2010, Intel announced that it would purchase McAfee for $48 a share in a deal valued at $7.68 billion. In September 2016, Intel announced their strategic partnership with TPG to turn McAfee into an independent cyber-security company as a joint venture. That deal closed on April 3, 2017. CEO David DeWalt resigned in 2011, and McAfee appointed Michael DeCesare and Todd Gebhart as co-presidents. In 2011, McAfee also partnered with SAIC to develop anti-cyber espionage products for use by government and intelligence agencies, along with telecommunications companies. On January 6, 2014, Intel CEO Brian Krzanich announced during the Consumer Electronics Show the name change from McAfee Security to Intel Security. The company's red shield logo would remain, with the firm continuing to operate as a wholly owned Intel subsidiary.[30] John McAfee, who no longer had any involvement in the company, expressed his pleasure at his name no longer being associated with the software. However, as of 2016 the products still bore the McAfee

On September 7, 2016. Intel sold its majority stake to TPG and entered into an agreement with TPG to turn Intel Security into a jointly-owned, independent cyber-security company

After the deal between the two companies closed, the company was spun back out of Intel on April 4, 2017." Chris Young assumed the CEO position as the company became an independent entity.

In 2018, the company unsuccessfully entered talks to sell majority control of McAfee to minority stakeholder Thoma Bravo. In 2018, McAfee also expanded its Security Innovation Alliance partnerships to include companies such as Atos, CyberX. Fidelis Cyber-security. Auias, and Silver Peak.

In July 2019, McAfee began meeting with bankers to discuss returning to the market as an IPO.[36] As an IPO, the company was estimated to be valued at $8 billion or higher However, no deal or decision to join the public market was confirmed.

Near the end of 2019. McAfee partnered with Google Cloud to integrate McAfee's Myision Cloud and endpoint security technology with Google's cloud infrastructure.

In October 2020, McAfee and its shareholders raised $740 million in the initial public offering and had valued at about $8.6 billion based on the outstanding shares listed in its prospectus. To handle the volume — and because airline crews don't generally work Monday through Friday, 9-to-5 — the center is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, including holidays.

The center includes several life-size cabins, specially equipped with a full planelength set of windows, so trainees can practice for real-world situations, such as turbulence or smoke in the cabin and familiarize themselves with the doors, jump seats and configurations of the various aircraft in United's fleet.

'You never want your training to just be, we're hitting the mark," said Ben Rose, United's manager for in-flight training programs. "We always want to exceed

The slide — which you can probably visualize from movies, or news footage of 2009's "miracle on the Hudson," when US Airways Flight 1549 safely landed in that river along Manhattan — detaches from the cabin after being loaded with passengers, instructors explained. Last month, for example, the airline and Boeing announced an order for 100 of the jet-maker's 787 wide-body aircraft, with the option to order 100 more.

For the trainees, the new center will help them be prepared for whatever their workday might bring.

"Our job is so multifaceted," said Josh Tanner, a trainee who's worked for other airlines previously and expects to be based in Chicago after completing United's course. "One day I'm a chef; one day I'm a firefighter; some days I'm trying to calm people."

United To Expand New Flight Attendant Training Center In Houston United Airlines on Thursday began a $20 training facility in Houston. Pictured is a rendering of that new facility.

United Airlines on Thursday began a $20 million expansion of its flight attendant training facility in Houston. More than 26,000 flight attendants work for the Chicago-based airline, and they were all required to complete six weeks of safety and service training in Houston. The project will add about 50,000 square feet of new classrooms, training spaces, storage and, eventually, a commercial-sized swimming pool where flight attendants will practice using inflatable emergency rafts in the event of a water landing.

"This supports our future growth plans and is part of United's ongoing commitment to provide our flight attendants with state of the art safety and service training," John Slater, United's senior vice president for inflight services, said in a statement. "It also reflects our ongoing commitment to our local customers and the city of
